

BREAK-AWAYS

January 4, 2017

Trend-Breaks Portfolio

We have created a Portfolio of stocks by utilizing the daily charts from the “Early Warnings” segment of the Daily Trend Report, which is part of the TheUpTrend.com technical charting system (link below).

NOTE: The Trend-Breaks Portfolio has a short-term perspective. Since this stock portfolio is based on daily stock charts, we update this report when appropriate. Any decisions made with respect to making changes to the portfolio will be reflected in a Buy, Sell, or Short transaction effected at the following day's Opening Price.

TODAY'S COMMENT: The market, again, continued its upward push. Our portfolio faltered slightly. We are buying two companies at the opening tomorrow, Dollarama Inc. and Sun Life Financial Inc., and putting four companies on watch (see below).

For comparative purposes, the following graph depicts the performance, since initiation, of the eResearch portfolio (BLUE line) against the S&P/TSX Composite Index (PINK line).

Following are our guidelines (Modus Operandi) for administering the Portfolio.

MODUS OPERANDI

Using the daily charts from the “Early Warnings” segment of the Daily Trend Report in theUpTrend.com technical system, we evaluate those stocks that have moved above or below their respective channel trend-lines.

We started with $100,000 cash and, when appropriate, we choose either one or two stocks and put an arbitrary approximate $10,000 in each stock pick. The buy price or the short-sell price will be at the next day’s opening price. All short sells will require the mandatory 30% margin.

We will continue buying or shorting until the Portfolio is fully “invested”, although this could include a sizable cash position. The portfolio is monitored and reported on daily.

If a stock closes at or higher than its Second Target price, then ½ of the position will be sold at the next day’s opening price. Using TheUpTrend.com system, the stock will be further evaluated and, if there is possible further upside, then it will be retained. If not, the entire position will be sold.

Also, if a stock receives a change of opinion in TheUpTrend.com by breaking its channel trend-line support, then it will be sold at the next day’s opening price.

If a stock has a decline below its purchase price that is 7% or more for three consecutive days, then the entire position in that stock will be sold at the next day’s opening price.

Similarly, for a stock sold short, if the stock move goes against us for three consecutive days with a loss of 5%, then that stock will be bought back at the next day's opening price, and the 30% margin requirement will be deleted.

Stocks sold either will be replaced, or the sales proceeds will augment the cash portion.
