

Notes From The Rabbit Hole

eResearch Corporation is pleased to provide an article, courtesy of NFTRH.com, and written by Gary Tanashian, with a bio on the Author provided at the end of the article.

The article, starting on the next page, is entitled: “Trump-Jinping Jitters”

Biiwii.com was created in mid-2000 solely as a way to help get the message out about deeply-rooted problems about too much debt and leverage within the financial system. The concerns were confirmed and the message proved justified 3 to 4 years later as the system began to purge these distortions, resulting in a climactic washout extending from October, 2008 to March, 2009.

Along the way, a geek-like interest in technical analysis, a long-time interest in human psychology, and various unique macro market ratio indicators were added to the mix, with the result being a financial market newsletter (and dynamic interim updates), Notes From The Rabbit Hole (NFTRH) that combines these attributes to provide a service that is engaged and successful in all market environments by employing risk management first, and opportunity for speculation second.

Notes From The Rabbit Hole

Trump-Jinping Jitters

By Gary Tanashian (bio at the end of the article)

April 4, 2017

It can never be so simple, as the market was due for a cooling of its jets, whether mini or something more maxi. I mean, we anticipated it but the media does not want people anticipating things based on boring things like overbought/oversold, seasonal, sentiment, or valuation. Not on the daily basis on which the MSM (Main Stream Media) needs to farm eyeballs, anyway.

So today the market is down because... Trump/Jinping, rationalizes the MSM, as “investors are staying out of riskier assets as they wait for the meeting on Thursday and Friday between Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping.”

At least that is what this guy thinks...

“The price action in different asset classes indicates that investors are favoring the safe havens ahead of a potentially [tense] Trump-Xi summit,” said Hussein Sayed, FXTM’s chief market strategist, in a note.

The media have them hand-picked to provide click-baiting pap on demand for every market squiggle. Well, why was some guy with a head stuffed full of flu able to project this squiggle well before today’s media rationale? Right! Because it has absolutely nothing to do with it.

“In a note” always makes them sound so buttoned down, doesn’t it? In a note... In a note my wife left me, it says I need to pick up milk, coffee, and dog food.

Anyway, I can feel I am still not right as a blog poster or market analyst and my mood is foul enough as I try to shake this bug. I am looking forward to being able to provide serious content again soon.

But for now...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gary Tanashian is a financial market analyst, writer, and editor. He provides “Accurate financial market analysis and commentary focused on unbiased reality as opposed to preconceived assumptions.”

As a long-time participant in financial media (published at leading outlets like SeekingAlpha, Investing.com, and many more), Gary has learned how to communicate with people about often-complex material. He knows that it requires hard work, but he believes that there is no other way in order to provide the highest quality service to the public.

Gary is the owner of Biiwii.com (launched in 2004) and, later, NFTRH.com (launched in 2014).

Biiwii is a financial website that got it RIGHT in the run up to 2008, unlike many in the financial services industry.

He is the owner and publisher of the weekly premium financial market report Notes From The Rabbit Hole, which was launched in September, 2008.

Notes From The Rabbit Hole is a premium newsletter service (including detailed in-week updates) for people who care more about financial market realities than having their preconceived notions reinforced. <http://nftrh.com/nftrh-premium/>
