

Notes From The Rabbit Hole

eResearch Corporation is pleased to provide an article, courtesy of NFTRH.com, and written by Gary Tanashian, with a bio on the Author provided at the end of the article.

The article, starting on the next page, is entitled: “Uranium Looks Interesting”

Biiwii.com was created in mid-2000 solely as a way to help get the message out about deeply-rooted problems about too much debt and leverage within the financial system. The concerns were confirmed and the message proved justified 3 to 4 years later as the system began to purge these distortions, resulting in a climactic washout extending from October, 2008 to March, 2009.

Along the way, a geek-like interest in technical analysis, a long-time interest in human psychology, and various unique macro market ratio indicators were added to the mix, with the result being a financial market newsletter (and dynamic interim updates), Notes From The Rabbit Hole (NFTRH) that combines these attributes to provide a service that is engaged and successful in all market environments by employing risk management first, and opportunity for speculation second.

Uranium Looks Interesting

By Gary Tanashian (bio at the end of the article)

July 12, 2017

We noted in NFTRH 454 (online edition) a couple weeks ago that...

“The uranium fund is pinned below the declining SMA 50 but has the look of a flag that could see another pop. The 1st resistance point is the sideways-going SMA 200 (currently 13.84), which halted the last bounce. If this gets above 14, be on alert for a new, extended U trade.”

It is a sector that is not going away, even as it struggles with a supply glut. Indeed, reactors are being built and one day this hated sector will recover.

That is the bigger picture. On the smaller picture here is Cameco, a primary U miner inching above a short-term resistance point. The little pattern would target 10.40 or so. A break of the wedge, higher, to maybe the mid 11s.

Again, the chart is big. See next page.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gary Tanashian is a financial market analyst, writer, and editor. He provides “Accurate financial market analysis and commentary focused on unbiased reality as opposed to preconceived assumptions.”

As a long-time participant in financial media (published at leading outlets like SeekingAlpha, Investing.com, and many more), Gary has learned how to communicate with people about often-complex material. He knows that it requires hard work, but he believes that there is no other way in order to provide the highest quality service to the public.

Gary is the owner of Biiwii.com (launched in 2004) and, later, NFTRH.com (launched in 2014).

Biiwii is a financial website that got it RIGHT in the run up to 2008, unlike many in the financial services industry.

He is the owner and publisher of the weekly premium financial market report Notes From The Rabbit Hole, which was launched in September, 2008.

Notes From The Rabbit Hole is a premium newsletter service (including detailed in-week updates) for people who care more about financial market realities than having their preconceived notions reinforced. <http://nftrh.com/nftrh-premium/>
