

Advice For Young Investors

eResearch Corporation is pleased to provide an article from The Reformed Broker, featuring Josh Brown.

Today's article is actually an eleven-minute video that provides tips for first-time or neophyte investors. Good advice is given which can even benefit more experienced investors. I

The Reformed Broker is a blog about financial markets and the economy.

From Josh Brown's website: My blog is about markets, politics, economics, media, culture and finance. I'll use statistics, satire, anecdotes, pop culture references, sarcasm, fact, fantasy, and any other device that I feel necessary to get my points across.

What I don't do on this site is give financial advice or tell anyone what to invest in. The Reformed Broker is a forecast-free blog. What I will do on this site is provide you with a running commentary of my market-related insights and thoughts as events unfold. I'll point you toward other interesting content around the web. I'll challenge your perceptions, call it like I see it and, occasionally, I'll make you laugh.

I am still getting a ton of feedback from this rundown that Bill Sweet and I did recently. There is also internal feedback from the Ritholtz Wealth Management “All Stars”.

If you are a young investor, this is a great place to begin. If you know a younger investor, feel free to pass this on.

NOTE: This video is aimed at U.S. investors. A 401k is akin to an RRSP in Canada, and a Roth IRA is similar to a TFSA.
