The article, starting on the next page, is entitled: “Bold Gold Rolled”.

Biiwii.com was created in mid-2000 solely as a way to help get the message out about deeply-rooted problems about too much debt and leverage within the financial system. The concerns were confirmed and the message proved justified 3 to 4 years later as the system began to purge these distortions, resulting in a climactic washout extending from October, 2008 to March, 2009.

Along the way, a geek-like interest in technical analysis, a long-time interest in human psychology, and various unique macro market ratio indicators were added to the mix, with the result being a financial market newsletter (and dynamic interim updates), Notes From The Rabbit Hole (NFTRH) that combines these attributes to provide a service that is engaged and successful in all market environments by employing risk management first, and opportunity for speculation second.

Bold Gold Rolled

By Tim Knight

March 6, 2019

In spite of the President's declaration on Saturday that the dollar was "too strong", King Dollar is holding its own and, in turn, gold continues to get battered. It has tumbled hard pretty much every day since February 20th. I wanted to mention, however, that it could be finding a reasonable area of strength soon.

Miners, too, should be watched closely for support a little north of $21.

Oddly, one of the most helpful charts to gauge the turning points of metals is the Japanese Yen. If the symmetric triangle of FXY holds, gold will almost certainly find strength and bounce.

To make the point more plausible, below are the comparison graphs of FXY versus GLD. You can see there is a bit of correlation here!
